

I would like to make a comment FOR the no call lists. It is a good thing when your phone doesn't ring all night with people trying to sell you something that you have absolutely NO INTEREST in purchasing. When I want to purchase something I will do the contacting them in order to get the information I need to make my own 'informed' decision. I feel that a lot of companies that do this type of calling take advantage of the elderly and those that are not always capable of making these decisions. The fast talking people (most with incomprehensible accents) will not give up when you say NO, NOT INTERESTED and keep harping at you to "at least try our service". If you say "YES" even once they will persist until you get rather upset and hangup or until you 'give in' and end up 'locked into' some "unbelievable offer"... Do not take the 'no call list' away from wisconsinites!
